SOCIETY MEETINGS.

MARION LODGE, NO. 35, F. & A. M.— Special meeting this evening, at 7 o'clock, for work in Third Degree. JOHN G. WATERS, Sec MYSTIC TIE LODGE, NO. 398, F. & A. M.— Stated meeting this evening at 7:30 o'clock WM. S. CONE, Secretary.

The students at the N. W. C. University perpetrated a rather cruel joke Friday night on an over-credulous youth, Bryan by name, whom they put through a bogus initiation into a pretended secret society. In addition to other abuses to which he was subjected, his clothes were ruined by an application of tar, and secret orders no longer interested

The students at this Institution have been guilty of such practices on frequent other occasions, and there seems to be a necessity for the Faculty to ferret out the perpetrators and prevent a repetition of such outrages.

Death of Luther R. Martin.

Saturday evening, on St. Clair street near Tennessee, Luther R. Martin was thrown from his buggy, and received such injuries to his head that he was rendered unconscious and died at at an early hour yesterday morning. Owing to the ill health of his wife, Mr. Martin and family have resided for two years past at Oconomowoc, Wisconsin, although he still etained his business interests in this city. He was best known as a real estate dealer, having been a member of the original firm of Wiley & Martin, and after the violent death of the first connected himself with his cousin, Daniel R, Martin. He accumulated a large estate, and besides carried a heavy nsurance on his life. Telegrams were sent saturday to his wife and to his father in Maryland, but neither had time to arrive before death came. The remains are lying at the residence of his aunt, 10 West Michigan street.

there were mysterious circumstances conected with this accident, but interviews by lews reporters with Mr. Pfafflin, who was riding with him, and with eye-witnesses, establishes the fact that the horse was restive and that Mr. Martin was careless in hand ling the reins. On reaching St. Clair street the horse made a sudden and unexpected turn to go east, and this turn threw out first Mr. Pfafflin and then Mr. Martin. Mr P. says that the injured man's last words were, "Oatch my horse and I'll go for a doctor," then he lapsed into insensibility.

Is there a middle-man, an occasional gambler himself, who collects a tax from the gambling fraternity and pays it out where it will do the most good? And has the tax thus collected any connection with the nonraiding of gambling dens by the police?

The Mayor's docket to-day, as a result of Sunday's work, showed 13 drunks, 5 assaults. 1 murder and a few peace disturbances.

A machinist who in 1860 received in wages $11 29 now receives $16.06 For the 1860 he could buy 94 bounds of lard, at 12 cepts a pound; with the $16 06 he can only buy 89 pounds now, as it it 18 cents. In 1860 he could buy 225 4-5 pounds dry codfish, at 5 cents a pound; now it is 8½ cents, and he can only obtain 176 2 5 pounds. Of butter he could buy, at 18 cents pound, in 1860, with his week's wages or $11 29, 62% pounds; in 1875, while his wages are $16.06, he can buy only 46 pounds, at 35 cents. Of cheese, which in 1860 was worth 10% cents a pound, he could purchase with his week's wages 102 pounds; now it is 1834 cents, and he must be content with 15 pounds ess. In 1860 he could buy nice veal cutlets for 11½ cents a pound, and other meats as low, and his butcher would sell him for a week's wages at that meats time, 107½ pounds; while to-day his week's wages only pay for 89½ pounds and he is "short on yeal" 18½ pounds. He works as diligently as in 1860 for five weeks; nominally receives $23 85 more in wages-which will procure for him of the necessities of life a less quantity by $16 97; although his wages are $16.06 a week instead of $11.29. Or, to put it in another form: The man who re-ceives $80 30 for five weeks' work at the present time, must draw from the savings pank, get trusted or borrow from a friend $16.97—making in all $97 27—in order to buy $16.97—making in all $97.27—111 order as as much lard, fish, butter, cheese and veal as he could buy with $56.45 that he received for five weeks' wages in 1860. These are for five weeks' wages in 1860. Thes stubborn facts that can not be refuted.

A Close Call.

[Detroit Free Press.] A Detroit boy surprised his father the other day by asking:

"Father, do you like mother?"

"Why, yes, of course."
"And she likes you?" "Of course she does "Did she ever say so?"

Many a time, my son " "Did she marry you because she loved "Certainly she did."

The boy looked the old man over, and after long pause asked:
"Well, was she as near-sighted then as she is now.

How to be Wretched. Kingsley.

If you wish to be miserable you must think about yourself; about what you want, what you like, what respect people ought to pay you, what people think of you, and then to you nothing will be pure. You will spoil everything you touch; you will make sin and misery for yourself out of everything God send you; you can be as wretched as you choose.

Tough but Good.

John King, in 1862, lived in Tennessee, soldiers of both armies raided on his farm. So he removed all his produce to a cave in the Cumberland mountains. A storm threw down a rock which closed the mouth of the cave. Therein he lived for thirteen years in the dark, eating from his produce and drinking from a spring. The other day a railroad company, blasting for a tunnel, blasted him ut. So says a paper.

Enough of That.

WASHINGTON.

[Special to the Cincinnati Gazette of to-day.] RESIGNATION OF COMMISSIONER SMITH-GEN. COWEN TO REMAIN.

The resignation of Indian Commissioner Smith was virtually in the hands of Secretary Chandler before he left for the West. Gen Cowan has been informed that his continuance as Assistant Secretary is desired and his friends say he will remain. It is well known here that for a long time previ-ous to the retirment of Delano, Gen. Cowan was not in accord with him in matters that have been so widely criticised of late. The statement put in circulation that Gen.

Bristow and Mr. Jewell had made active opposition to the nomination of Chandler has no truthful foundation, and the same is true of the report that he had threatened to dismiss all clerks who had failed to contribute to the election fund. For the present no other changes than that of Commissioner smith are expected among bureau officers, but after the annual reports have been submitted it is believed s changes will be announced.

but after the annual reports have been submitted it is believed some prominent changes will be announced.

JUDGE KELLEY'S SCHEME IN THE SOUTH.

He reports the entire Southern country eager to accept his inflation theories. He says Senator Bayard's doctrine of contraction, which teaches the people to permit the credit mongers to continue to bleed them, fell like a wet blanket. The reception of any views by an opposite party, and of Bayard's views by his own party, plainly shows the demoralization of parties.

RUMORS OF MORE CABINET CHANGES.

There will be at least two more Cabinet changes before the first of next January.

The President's executive officers do not all suit him, and some of them having incurred the hostility of the ultra administration faction, will be compelled to walk the plank to escape discomfort that has grown unendurable.

WE suppose it would be impossible for Journal to give Governor Hendricks credit for anything good. It is doubtful if it would even admit that he preserves the comity between the States.

AFTER driving about the city and noting A dispatch from Owensburg, Ky., says that rofessor Atchison, the aeronaut, was seri-listinged at that place. He attempted city in the Union, and that it is destined to the greatest strictly inland city of

The usual signification of an inland city ble lake or river, and which gains no commercial facilities by navigation. In this sense Indianapolis has been for several years the largest inland city in the United States, the only place which can compare with it being Rochester, New York. If any gentleman expects Indianapolis to become greater than Chicago or St. Louis with their great advantages and imm tain to become a very large city, but we never expect to see it the largest in the country, except those upon the sea-board.

THE Centennial managers, or some the Philadelphia people, have been giving a junketing affair to some public men and few newspaper representatives. They were taken to Philadelphia on a free train and in palace cars, dined and wined on the way, banquetted at that city, given ree quarters at the hotels and admission to the theaters and other amusements, and after having been filled with good cheer and information about the Centennial, were sent home. Gov. Hendricks was one of the most prominent guests. The whole thing is an advertising scheme, of course. and designed to secure aid. Not a dollar was spent except to accomplish a purpose. The idea is to get as much influence as possible, and then go before Congress this winter and ask an appropriation. The Philadelphia people, who expect to make a vast quantity of money out of the exhibition, are not disposed to pay the cost attorneys, to show cause why, if any there were, why he should not be punished for contempt in not paying $9 500, as ordered by the load. Congress has heretofore put its Judge McKean, as alimony, pendente lite, to Ann Eliza Young, the plaintiff in this case. The court adjourned till next Wednesday it will continue to do so. Enough has been appropriated already. The present Congress was elected upon a basis of reform, and we don't expect to see it start off with voting public money for such a purpose as the Centennial exhibition.

> THE Journal is needlessly sore over the the imputation that Senator Mortion is the moving spirit in its control, and explains that he has not a dollar invested in it. While this is doubtless true, its course so far in reference to him has tended to spread a reform. the belief that it was to be his personal organ. Its haste to declare the very morning the change took place, that the Ohio election was mainly due to his efforts and its continued advocacy, has satisfied the public that the Journal will be his warmest supporter under all circumstances. When it is remembered that Col. Holloway's political fortunes are inextricably bound up with the Senator's and that he is one of the two owners of the paper, the belief that the change is meant to redound to the Senator's benefit is strengthened. It is a bad thing however, both for the Senator and the paper. People will not believe that it is not his organ and that he does not inspire every opinion it utters. He will be held responsible for everything that appears in it, and it will be useless to repeat that he has nothing whatever to do with it. It will hurt him a great deal more jured in being considered a personal or gan which reflects the views of one man rather than those of the public or the party. Its opinions, with such an impression abroad, will be shorn of weight and in many instances the burden of personality will strangle them entirely. It is a great mistake to think that "an organ" can help Senator Morton. When a man reaches his prominence the only benefit he can receive is from the notoriety of good acts. and with a bad or common place record, the praise of one newspaper can not affect national sentiment. When a man is comparatively obscure so far as the nation is concerned, the grinding of an organ may give him notoriety, but when he has notoriety and wishes to gain sound reputation that will commend him to public favor, it requires the solid basis of merit. Without this newspaper harpings do nothing; with it the praise of a few newspapers is not needed.

A VICIOUS PRINCIPLE. A paragraph of The News the other day to the effect that it was nonsense or worse to say that it is better that ninety-nine guilty men escape than that an innocent man be punished, has been criticized and agreed with in about equal numbers of cotemporaries, and by readers. Harsh as it sounds, it is better, far better, that one innocent man suffer, however unjustly or severely he suffer, than that ninety-nine guilty men escape. Society in the aggregate has rights as distinct and sacred as the rights of the individual, though the administration, and possibly the theory of the law, does not much recognize them. One of these rights is the right to have guilty men punished. Guilty men must be punished or society can not exist in safety. Society is based on the idea of a surrender by many individuals of certain natural rights for the purpose of gaining that unity in which there is greater safety for all. In such unity there can only be consideration and legislation for the mass-though individuals are overlooked or apparently oppressed. The individual has this chance to take, in becoming a member of a civilized community. He must pay such taxes as are ordered. He must pay for an improvement of a street on which he has property, though the improvement in fact is an injury to him, leaving his house inaccessible on a precipice, or below the grade so far that persons on the street may look down his chimneys. A railroad may plow through his house and leave not a stick or stone of it, though it may be hallowed by the births of generations. In dricks. all regards the public alone is considered. What is best for the mass is done, in theory at least, without regard to the conven-been committed. Then before there can be a punishment, if the guilty one is able to make a defense, there is a degree of is one that is not situated upon a naviga- formality in the charge preferred, in the students. Each bishop has at least one matter and manner of the evidence heard, in the charge of the Court, and above all. a license allowed his attorneys to villify and abuse the witnesses who prove the crime on the criminal, to distort facts, to misstate the law, which makes it almost impossible to secure a punishment. The entire secret of this system is in the doctrine that is stated above.

> There is no good sense in the doctrine There is no reason for it. The danger of inuocent men being either charged or proven guilty of crime under any system of law which civilization would sanction. may be set down as infinitessimal. It was stated by a lawyer of this city in an address to the bar, which we published, that not one man in five hundred arraigned is innocent. A judge of long experience commenting on the statement said that in all his experience he had never seen but two men upon trial of whose guilt he had a doubt. The degree of guilt differs in the same crime, but there is guilt in every man charged. The criminal law is seriously defective because of its tenderness to ward the criminal class. It is not needed that punishments be made more severe but there is great need that punishments be more sure. This can not be secured while the absurd-and by proofs of unvarying experience declared absurd, theory be maintained that every criminal at the bar is a law abiding citizen innocent of crime.

> This city and county has had frequent illustrations of the curse of our lax laws for criminals. A murderer, a burglar, a thief, a blackmailer, a forgerer, concerning whose guilt no man in this city has a doubt, are all living in safety within sight of the court house, because there was a flaw some, where, a technicality unobserved in the trials convicting them, and our Supreme Court graciously opens their prison doors. The courts can not be criticised in obeying the law in screening the criminal. The lawyers are not guilty accessories "after the fact," to use their own phrase, in defending men known to be guilty. The defect is in the law itself. There is need for a re form here, and sooner or later there will be

Pining and Pinning.

BY MARY AUGUSTA CLABKE. "You shall not?pin them back," they said; She only sighed and dropped her head, she only looked with tearful eye On pinned-back misses waddling by.

To live in bliss and draw them tight: Within her strong rebellion rose: "I will, I will pin back my clothes."

But still she dared not for the fear of sternest parents ever near; and while her spirits sadly pined, Her loose clothes fluttered in the wind

But still in secret, when she could, Before her long pier g ass she stood And pinned them back; her eyes grew bright With pleasure when she saw them tight.

But stolen joys like these must fail To satisfy; her cheek grew pale, And as the autumn days sped by Sadly they told that she must die.

She made no moan, her eye grew wild; But when they questioned her she smiled. She loved to roam in quiet spots, And gathered sweet forget-me nots.

But still she did not weep or rave, But whispered to herself, "Alack! They would not let me pin them back." So when the autumn leaves were sear And winds blew loud and skies were drear.

At twilight of one stormy day Her gentle spirit passed away. But ere she closed her meek blue eye. Just as the clock struck seven, She murmered with a happy sigh, "They pin them back in heaven."

[Rushville Republican.] People are becoming tired of the ceaseless talk about hard times and panics. They know that while it is true that much depres sion exists in certain branches of business, that it results from over production and speculation more than any other cause. The real wealth of a nation is taken from the ground; the crops and mines give forth that which constitutes wealth. The year has given the husbandman an abundant harvest; here and there exceptions exist and the crops are a failure, yet the country never produced so large a crop. Prices rule high for stock and grain. The published state-ments of banks show that individual deposits are greatly in excess of the amount this time last year. The farmers, mechanics and laborers have more money now than then. This does not argue tor depression, but shows that dawn is breaking and the hour of deliverence is near at hand. The debt-pay-ing process has been steadily going on; little by little the load has been removed, until he burden is now becoming light and can

The wealth of the United States in 1870 was estimated at $30,068,000,000. This is the foundation of our financial oredit among the nations of the world. All this sprang from either personal labor, productions of nature, importation of money by immigration, and as the result of trade and commerce, and the enhancement of the value of land from all these sources.

The only true Democracy is the old hardmoney Democracy of Jefferson and Jackson. The rag-money heresy, imported into the party by the wild men of Ohio, and stolen from profligate Republicans like Kelley and Butler, is not the Democratic creed. Unaltered opposition to Grantism, constant warfare against the rings which infest the Administration and on which its power is built up, thorough reform at Washington, and overthrow of the one man power in politics, should be the war cries for the people.

Ill Bred People,

There has not been a night at either of the wo leading places of amusement for the past two weeks but what some portions of the audience have been annoyed and their attention distracted from the stage by the muttered comments of ill-bred people in their immediate neighborhood. During the "Two Orphans" at the Academy, night after night, there were those who had seen it elsewhere, a fact soon made patent to every one occupying contiguous seats, and they being interested only in the climaxes, contented themselves with commenting upon "how much different it was there than here," or other matters equally irrelevant and excessively annoying to those to whom each feature of the drama was a charming spectacle. Saturday night, at the Opera House, well dressed parties, careless or perhaps ignorant of the common rules of eti-quette, were excessively annoying with muttered speech, continuous in every scene, and only drowned from ear when Hamlet with his powerful voice rolled out those glorious bursts of rhetoric with which the play abounds. These disturbances are of nightly occurrence, and they come from a class of people of whom better things are expected; people of whom better things are expected; door and stood with his back to him, with and yet who, by just such gross violation, show themselves ignorant and uncultivated, and deficient in those impulses which make the natural gentleman or gentlewoman. A hoodlum at the same place would have more regard for the rights of those surrounding him than do these people, and would show more courtesy to the square time to gross what it meant it came around the time to gross what it meant it came around. and would show more courtesy to the square inch in one hour, in this regard, than the class above mentioned during an entire evening. The evil has become a crying one, and is on the increase, for the ushers and "grand snap.

No matter how poor the play, or how wooden headed the support, there are spectators whom it interests, and they come with the expectation and the right to be undisturbed in their enjoyment; hence it is the bounden duty of the two managements to take such steps as will break up this unpleasant and inexcusable business. The enforcement of the "grand bounce" would soon work a remedy, and a "Bogardus kicker" distributed here and there would strengthen the reformation. trengthen the reformation.

The Dowling Trouble.

If the Christian Church people would openly work with the same degree of vigor with which they buzz under the surface, the Dowling matter would be satisfactorily set tled in two months. Let the men directly prominent, instead of discussing technical ties set their feet firmly down and demand a re-hearing, and if the accused values his church fellowship and the retaining of the influence which his publications give him, he will not ignore the request. If the pres-ent trouble continues unchecked, and no decisive measures are taken, it will not be twelve months until the unity and useful-ness of every Christian church in this city is marred if not seriously impaired, and this demoralization will be entirely due to the want of backbone and the moral cowardice which seems to characterize the handling of this church dissersion. As it now stands both sides are in the wrong—one for obsti-nacy and the other for deficiency in moral

A WONDERFUL DEXTERITY

The Ecomerang and Its Mysterious Pe cultarities. [Chicago Tribune.]

A traveler tells something of the singular weapon used by the natives of Australia. skirts or upon the borders of the canal, but not a patrolman turns his keen nose toward the boomerang. He saw them used by the not a patrolman turns his keen nose toward the beautiful palaces under the shadow of inches in length, and were of various shapes, police headquarters. The are as loth in this all curved a little, and looking, as he dedirection as are the police officials to raid the scribes them, like a wooden new moon. They were made of a dark, heavy wood, and weighed from one to three pounds. In thickness they vary from half an inch, and taper to a point at each end.

One of the natives picked up the piece of wood, and, poising it an instant, threw it, giving it a rotary motion. For the first 100 feet or more it went straight ahead. Then it tacked to the left and rose slightly, still rotating slightly. It kept this latter course for a hundred feet more, perhaps, but soon veered to the left again, describing a broader curve, and a moment later fell to the earth six or eight feet in front of the thrower, hav ing described nearly a circle in the air.

Another native then took the same boomerang and cast it, holding it with the same grip. It took the same course, but made broader curves, and as it came round the black caught it handsomely with his right

Another native next threw it, and lodged it on the ground about twenty feet behind him, after it had described a circle of 200 yards or upward. After him they all tried it, and but one of them failed to bring the weapon back to the spot where they stood.

Carnboo, a native, then selected from the heap of boomerangs another one, and cast it with a sort of jerk. It flew very quickly for 40 or 50 yards, whirling like a top. Then it darted into the air, mounting fully 100 feet, and came over our heads, where it seemed to hang stationary for a moment, then settle slowly, still whirling, till he caught it. Two others of the blacks then did the same thing.

Meanwhile I had with my knife shaved little of the wood from the convex side of one of the boomerangs. This I now offered to one of them to throw. He took it with out noticing what I had done, poised it, but stopped short, and with a contemptuous glance at my improvement threw it down and exclaimed:

"Bale budgery!" (no good.) The others then looked at it cautiously, but it was a bale budgery also to them. No one could be induced to throw it

Myers asked them why they did not use it but they could not give a definite answer. It was plain that they did not like the way it poised, when held in the hand, yet I could not distinguish any difference whatever between this and the other weapons.

Burleigh then walked to a distance of 200 feet or more from the blacks and bid Carnboo throw to him. The native looked at him a moment rather curiously, then, comprehend-ing what was wanted, he selected one of the heaviest of the missles, and, turning half round, threw it with great force in a direc-tion almost opposite from that where Burleigh stood.

The weapon sped smartly for 60 or 70 feet, then tacked in an instant and flew directly at Burleig h and, had he not most expediat Burleig, h and, had he not most expedi-tiously ducked, he would have received a hard thump, if nothing worse. Itstruck the ground 20 or 30 paces beyond. This feat brought out a broad grin and something like a chuckle from the whole of them. Carnboo even intimated that he would like to try another cast, but Burleigh expressed himself satisfied.

Mr. Smith, however, offered to "take a shot," but not at too short a range. We were standing in front of one of the store-houses. Carnboo placed Smith in front of the door and stood with his back to him, with Canaan, who brought suit against the Surgical Institute for malpractice, has run away, greatly to the mortification of his duped lawyer, his landlor and the disappoint ment of the Institute, as they felt sure of sending him to the penitentiary had he ven-tured his case of blackmailing farther. The case has been dismissed.

A Bold Robbery.

Saturday afternoon, while William Coverdill, an old farmer living south of the city, was driving along Virginia avewas driving along Virginia ave-nue, two strangers jumped into the wagon and seated themselves on each side of him. He objected to the familiarity, but they turned it off with a laugh, and the but they turned it off with a laugh, and the trio proceeded until after crossing Pleasant Run, when the strangers jumped out and took another course. Shortly after Mr. C. missed his pocket book, containing a $1.300 certificate of deposit on the Indiana Banking Co., besides several valuable notes, and he at once took measures to prevent the procession being over two miles in length.

A FOUL MURDER.

A Drunken Brawl and its Beadly Results -Whisky Triamphant Again.

Last evening, shortly after dusk, William A. Howard, alias Brigham Young, employed at Kingan's, and Thomas Mascil, working at the Water Works, met in front of 320 Potomac alley. Words led to blows, Howard was knocked down, and in what followed Mascil was stabbed in the calve of the right leg, from the effects of which he died from hemorrhage within a few moments. This locality is one of the most wretched in the city, famous in of drunken fights and domestic dissensions of drunken fights and domestic dissensions and general hoodlumism of the inhabitants, and brawls therein are of such frequent occurrence that they lost interest until this bloody sequel whetted the edge and gave a zest to the riots of the past. A careful investigation of the present murder gives the following particulars: Howard, a bad character, few worse, armed with a revolver and dangerous pocket knife, and in a drunkand dangerous pocket-knife, and in a drunk en mood, had been lounging about the neighborhood for an hour and more. Mascil was standing in front of his father's residence, talking to his cousin, Kate Mascil, when Howard staggered gainst him and to a demand for an explanation, retorted with an insulting epithet and threw his hand back as if reaching for a evolver. At the same time he was carrying he knife with open blade in his left hand Mascil knocked him down and kicked him. and while kicking Howard cut with his cnife, severing an artery from which the blood flowed in fearful stream. The wounded man limped into the house, and a physician wassent for but before the arrival of Dr. Lutz he bled to death. By request of the relatives Dr. Lutz sewed up the wound, which was two inches in length, and from this arose the report that the physician had not attempted to first compress the artery.

The death of Mascil raised a terrible excitement on the street, drunken men and maddened women alike howling for the ynching of the murderer. From this inco-berent crowd the police had difficulty in earning who did the deed, but finally pa rolman Coleman and others traced Howard o his boarding place on the corner of Blake and New York streets, and arrested him. In his possession were found the revolver, two chambers discharged and the' knife, covered with the blood of his victim. fo-day a preliminary examination was con-inued until Wednesday, owing to the ab-sence of witnesses and to await the result of the Coroner's investigation, which comnenced this afternoon, Under instructions rom his attorney, which his name is Dickey. Under instructions Howard declined, when asked by a News reporter, to give any version of the affair, and tis understood that the theory of his counsel will be self defense. In appearance Brigham" is a low-browed, dirty looking scoundrel, of a dangerous class and apparently indifferent of what is to come. left hand is crippled by a cut from his own cnife, and his face is dotted with encrustations of dirt and blood, the first of months standing. During his ugly career he has been numerously married, and but recently sepa rated from a fourth or fifth wife.

Mascil was of quiet disposition, the best one of the lot, and although having been frinking, had control of himself at the time the murder occurred. This forenoon a News reporter visited the habitation on Potomac street, and found the family protest ng against a postmortem, which, under the circumstances, is rigidly necessary. They were given until afternoon to make up their mind, and if they consent not, it was to be done anyhow. That the death was the result of their ignorance or carelessness there is no doubt, for a compression of the artery could easily have been made, and left the physician upon arrival nothing to do but tie up the ends. The remains will be buried tomorrow. Howard is in jail.

MRS, WRIGHT'S READINGS. Mrs. Fred. Wright, of Philadelphia, it should be remembered, will give readings at Bradshaw's Hall to-morrow night for the benefit of the Orphan's Home. Mrs. Wright's ability in this direction is highly commended, and those who heard her at the Center nial Tea Party deem themselves fortunate. The object is a most worthy one and the occasion enables people to gratify themselves and to benefit a deserving charity.

An Escape from Fourteen Years.

The fact that one of the regular panel in the Criminal Court was pre-emptorily chal-lenged and an outside juryman substituted. is said to be the only thing which prevented Dick Greer from getting fourteen years in-stead of three on his second trial. This outsider hung like a leach to a limited sentence and to prevent a return of an "agree to disagree" the dozen members of the "iron jury" ompromised as above. Greer was well con tent with his former sentence, of which he had already served seven months, and he does not take kindly to the new penalty, which imposes one year longer time and does not give credit for the months already served. It is fair to presume, with this ex-perience, that under no condition will he consent for another appeal to the hair-splitting Supreme Court.

Newsboys Home,

The Executive Committee of the News boys Home Saturday evening met and appointed Frank L. Smith and Judge Jordan to solicit subscriptions to-day, John H. Holliday and John G. Blake to-morrow, and Judge Martindale Wednesday. Subscriptions were reported as follows: Prof. Leon's tight-rope performance, $133.59; J. H. Baldwin, $100; Evening News, $50; Harbison & Abrams, $5; Surgical Institute, $100. The arrangement for the Cincinnati excursion on November 11th was cordially endorsed; every ticket purchased will realize $1 for the benefit of the Home. Contributions are asked to be immediately made, as many of the boys are without homes, and need a refuge from the cold nights and wintry blasts so soon to come.
